

Adam Baruch - The Soundtrack Of My Life

...

7. Oktober um 14:46 · 🌐

Edi Kohldorfer – "The Riddance"

This is an album by Austrian guitarist / composer Edi Kohldorfer, recorded with no less than twenty-six musicians from four continents, presents ten original compositions by Kohldorfer. It was recorded during the pandemic of 2021 and the tracks were contributed by musicians performing remotely in their home recording studios, which became common modus operandi for many musicians during that time.

The music is all melody based and offers a strong Jazz undercurrent, with many World Music influences, some Blues, Fusion and other elements also present, creating a very pleasant cross-genre listening experience, on the lighter side of the Jazz spectrum.

The contributions by all the participating musicians and of course primarily the guitar playing by Kohldorfer, are all splendidly executed and the album offers enough diversity and mood swings to keep the listener interested from start to finish.

Overall, this is a very nice Jazz-World Fusion album, which offers beautiful melodies and passionate performances, which should make many Jazz / Fusion / World Music enthusiasts very happy. Although on the lighter scale of the Jazz spectrum, it makes no compromises as far as quality and professionalism are concerned.

http://www.adambaruch.com/reviews\_item.asp?item=107189

#AdamBaruch #RecordReviews #MusicCriticism #Jazz #JazzWorldFusion #AustrianJazz #EuropeanJazz

